2.3. Sobre las reducciones temporales en la tarifa de respaldo como sistema de fomento para el desarrollo de las modalidades de autoconsumo y de producción con autoconsumo.

El fomento de autoconsumo mediante ahorros de peajes de respaldo es una señal errónea, con efectos sobre el sistema y de difícil implementación. Sistemas de apoyos directos a la inversión se consideran mas apropiados.

En el artículo 16.4, se habilita al Ministerio de Industria, Energía y Turismo a aplicar reducciones temporales del peaje de respaldo, para fomentar el desarrollo de las distintas modalidades de suministro con autoconsumo y producción con autoconsumo.

El ahorro de peajes de respaldo como señal de inversión es un error.

Adrian,

Following our discussion yesterday, please see 'non-paper' attached in which we tried to capture through yesterday and identify in broad terms how we might to propose to address them.

As you will see the document is presented as a DPER paper but with the objective of setting out you identified and how we would propose to address them in the context of the public finances in FOI.

Leaf Tobacco

His Excellency, Ambassador Mr. Charles Sheehan
Embassy of Ireland
7 Leoforos Vasilissis Konstantinou
106 74 Athens
Greece

Dear Ambassador Mr. Sheehan,

Re: Plain Packaging Legislation

We are writing to express our concern about legislative initiatives in Ireland to impose plain packaging on tobacco products. As one of the leading oriental leaf tobacco processors and exporters of Greek tobacco, selling to first-class cigarette manufacturers worldwide, we pay close attention to these developments as it is our view that plain packaging could have serious repercussions for thousands of tobacco farmers in Greece.

Leaf tobacco farming provides a stable revenue for more than 15000 Greek farming families, many of which live in rural areas where both employment opportunities and alternative crop choices are limited. Additionally the in-country processing activity of the tobacco provides employment for thousands more.

The Greek oriental tobacco crop is internationally recognised as being of the highest quality, grown by skilled and experienced farmers. Greece is one of only four countries which grows classical aromatic leaf which is sought after by cigarette manufacturers worldwide for use in their international blends. This has made Greek farmers the beneficiaries of a steady return from their tobacco crops and enabled them to support themselves in an otherwise extremely difficult economic context.

One of the consequences of plain packaging is that it removes the ability of responsible, high-quality cigarette manufacturers to distinguish their product from those of other manufacturers, including those who pay little attention to product quality or social responsibility. Without the means to differentiate the product, the market is stripped of its capacity to effectively communicate with the consumer, who may unintentionally start purchasing products made with lower quality standards as well as slight regard for labour relations or responsible farming. Simply put, plain packaging could support irresponsible cigarette producers at the expense of the responsible ones. In Greece this could undermine the current efforts to grow a quality product as well as the continued effort to introduce best agricultural practices. Not only would this lead to poorer farming communities and a tobacco industry which favours unethical practices, but in the case of Greece, it would have a considerably negative effect on a part of an already fragile economy.

In short, plain packaging can lead to irresponsible and unethical manufacturing which would indirectly penalise Greek tobacco farmers whose interests are parallel with ours.

Yours sincerely,

Yigit Taner
